ABOUT MABO ð ...

Mabo Day on June 3rd marks the conclusion of National Reconciliation Week and is a significant day in our national history.

On Mabo Day, we honour the leadership, determination and courage of Eddie 'Koiki' Mabo.

His achievement, along with David Passi and the late James Rice, in securing recognition of his people's ongoing title to their own lands and waters was a watershed moment in Australia's history.

It holds enormous significance, not only for Torres Strait Islanders, but for Aboriginal people across the nation and for Australians everywhere.

The High Court ruling in the Mabo case acknowledged in Australian law a simple truth . someone was already here at the time the British colonies were established, overturning the legal doctrine of terra nullius.

On this day, 25 years on, we honour this great Meriam man from Mer Island in the Torres Strait.

We pay tribute to his family, whose commitment helped our nation to see more clearly the profound and continuing relationship of Torres Strait Islander and Aboriginal peoples with their traditional lands and waters.

And we remember Eddie 'Koiki' Mabo, a man who gave us a glimpse of how Australia could know itself more deeply, more truthfully . and be the better for it.

Prayer Needs

- ◆ The people of Nepal after two disastrous earthquakes
- ◆ Refugees stranded on boats trying to find a country which will give them refuge
- ◆ The people of South Sudan
Rev James Makuei Choul, Executive Director of the Presbyterian Relief and Development Agency, our partner in South Sudan talks with heartbreaking despair about the current spate of violence against civilians including women and children in South Sudan, following the breakdown of the peace talks this March. (Information from UnitingWorld webpage)
- ◆ The lands and people of Botswana and Zimbabwe

From UnitingWorld's Facebook page .

On Tuesday 26th May members of Turramurra UC, along with UnitingWorld and Rev Jon Humphries from Ravenswood School joined the Church of North India for the official opening of an exciting new school in the Himalayas. Parents were delighted to talk about the impact the school is already having . with children no longer having to walk hours to get to school and a growing hope within the community for their future.
